

Legislature gives green light for $50 million

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

Money to widen parts of Highways 603 and 43 has been approved by the state Legislature.

Rep. Harry Frierson said House Bill 1302 includes funds to four-lane Highway 603 from Stennis Airport Drive to Highway 43, and to four-lane Highway 43 from Highway 603 to Picayune.

The estimated cost of the highway improvements around $50 million for Hancock and Pearl River counties, Frierson said.

There is an additional $2 million for improvements of Highway 90 through Hancock County in House Bill 1302 as well, Frierson said.

The title of the House Bill, which was approved by the Senate is, "Expand four-lane highway program, create bridge program, and provide for gaming counties' infrastructure."

"On Highway 90 in Hancock County this will involve new turning lanes and other highway improvements," Frierson said.

On the State Aid formula, Hancock County will receive an increase of $136,184, placing the county total aid at $466,625 annually.

Hancock County has 165.8 miles of State Aid roads that these funds can be spent on, Frierson said.

Hancock County will receive $172,882 over the next five years annually to replace deficient bridges from the bill, too, Frierson said.

Frierson is a member of the House Transportation Committee, along with Representative Mark Formby of Picayune.

Both legislators helped get committee approval on the Highway 603 and 43 projects before it reached the floor of the House.

Sheriff's insurance cost escalates

By MARY G. SHRIEY

Part of the Jubilee Casino money that's been routed to the Hancock County Sheriff's Department was put to use Monday.

Sheriff Ronnie Peterson told the Hancock County Board of Supervisors he'll use most of the $23,000 his department has received from casino revenues to buy a new car and to defray an unexpected hike in liability insurance for the department.

Peterson said his insurance costs went from $33,000 to $77,000 recently. Sheriffs around the country are seeing similar increases, he said, due to increased exposure to lawsuits.

In another matter, Peterson said long-awaited materials to modify the county jail arrived in town, but the jail door was not built to accommodate the new locks and hardware.

The county awarded a $15,000 bid in August to separate a section of the jail for detaining youths. The construction was held up because the specialized doorway and frame weren't delivered to the contractor.

Officials had an April 1 deadline to accomplish the renovations, under a federal mandate that juvenile offenders be housed separately from adults.

When the deadline passed unmet, Youth Court Judge Ann Williamson said she would no longer send under-age offenders to the jail to await transfer to state training schools.

protect the public seawall, which in turn protects Beach Boulevard from erosion and eventual collapse. Some sections of the seawall already are damaged from erosion, and there are stretches of the roadway in seriously deteriorated condition.

The beachfront has eroded so much along segments of North Beach Boulevard that private residential property owners are joining with the city to push for the renourishment program. The public beachfront is contiguous to the seawall, between Washington and Bayview Court.

From Bayview to the Highway 90 bridge, private property owners are offering to pay their share for renourishment which they hope will stop dramatic erosion they have seen over the past several years.

The county is under contract with T.L. James to rebuild the beach from Washington to the Buccaneer State Park area, possibly including a stretch in front of the park and another in front of Clermont Harbor.

The city hopes to piggyback the county's contract, saving money by avoiding the costly mobilization of beach equipment and personnel.

man James J. Rutherford, who had been briefed on the casino's plans earlier, said the hotel will cost some $48 million.

Council passed its resolution supporting the casino's continued operations without much discussion. Councilman Tad Black abstained from voting, without saying why.

Meanwhile, the city's Planning and Zoning Commission will consider the casino's application for a zoning change to accommodate construction of a 100-unit apartment complex on a 4.9-acre tract bounded on the northeast by Blue Meadow Road and on the south by Blue Grass Road.

The plans, to be aired at the commission's April 13 meeting, call for changing the tract from single family residential to multi-family residential. Casino officials say the complex is urgently needed to facilitate housing needs of employees and other new residents moving to this area.

In an appearance before the Hancock County Board of Supervisors on Tuesday, State Rep. J.P. Comprett introduced Worth Thomas, a casino official said the re-licensing process would include a series of talks with the Gaming Commission April 13-15. He asked for, and got, a resolution from the county endorsing license renewal for the facility.

Varnell. He said there was a 75% increase of traffic on the thoroughfare, and also the new sand beach would be bringing more traffic.

His department has been issuing an increase in speeding tickets.

"At 2 a.m. or 2 p.m., you can clock motorists at 50 and 55 miles per hour," Varnell stated.

An appeal was made to the council from Ted Andressen, an Aiken Road resident, who complained about the state of a yard across from his residence.

Andressen explained the grass hasn't been cut since last year, and he feared rats and snakes would take over the neighborhood.

The conditions of the property also devalues his property, the homeowner said.

Gex agreed to send a letter to the property's owner requesting it be cleaned.

The council went into executive session to discuss a personnel matter and upon coming out, Frilot said no vote or action was taken.

Favre is also a driver's education and physical education teacher in addition to being baseball coach.

With 25 years of service at the end of this school year, Favre has already put in for his retirement.

"I was contemplating one more year because my youngest daughter is scheduled to graduate in 1995. This will be my fourth child to go through the Hancock County School system.

Favre expressed his feelings about his players, especially the ones who will be seniors next season.

"I do regret that if I am not back next season, I will not be working with those who have come through the program with me, especially the seniors," Favre said.

The Hawk head mentor is proud to say that many of his former players have made it to junior colleges, colleges and universities on football scholarships, and his son Brett, quarterback for the Green Bay Packers.

Favre, his wife Bonita and son Brett have formed a corporation, now involved in several business dealings, he said.

"Brett's success has really changed our lifestyle and he really takes care of his family," Favre said.

"All of this, though, has not taken me away from my job at the school," Favre added.

Some of the business interests is dealing with property.

QUOTEABLE QUOTES

By Ellis C. Cuevas

U.S. Congressman Gene Taylor gave a very interesting speech to the Diamondhead Business and Professional Association last week.

Taylor spoke about how Medicare and Medicaid is the country's largest budget item.

The Congressman from Bay St. Louis is also concerned about North Korea and their military buildup.

An item I thought interesting was Taylor's comments on the many letters his office received during budget time from constituents saying they do not want any tax hikes.

Later on into the session a large number of letters came from the same people who do not want a tax increase, but asking for something which will add to the tax burden.

A pet item of Taylor since he has been in Congress is the Merchant Marine shipping and how merchant vessels are being built in foreign nations instead of in the United States.

Deficit spending is a subject Congressman Taylor gave a lot of time to. It is something which has to come to an end, he said.

Congress spends a great deal of money, and it is in the billions of dollars. Someone, someday is going to have to address the deficit spending.

Did you notice, as I did last week, the amount of dust on your vehicles?

The story I have been able to gather is, there was a big dust storm in Texas, and the drizzle and showers dropped it in on us.

The car washes were doing a booming business, as the extra dust, along with the pollen from pine, oaks, pecans and other trees, added to the problem.

Those of us who suffer from sinus problems felt the extra amount of particles in the air, too. I know I did.

I washed my car several times and finally gave up for awhile until things settle, if they ever will.

Have you noticed the sidewalks along Dunbar Avenue in Bay St. Louis?

Some 2,000 feet were constructed by city crews, and this is a big savings from having a contractor do the job.

Plans call for sidewalk construction on the Old Spanish Trail from Main to Washington, and Ulman Avenue from Second to Dunbar.

I had one Cedar Point resident, who frequently uses the walking track, tell me that she and her husband now exercise by using the new sidewalks.

I may even give it a try and take in all the nice sites along Dunbar Avenue.

I am happy to see the progress being made in Bay St. Louis, as all of these improvements are much needed and appreciated.

Congratulations are in order for Steve Grover, plant manager of GE Plastics at Port Bienville.

Steve recently received a Silver Beaver Award from the New Orleans Council Boy Scouts of America.

A Silver Beaver is the highest award given by a Scout Council to a volunteer.

Only having been in our county for about two years, Steve's contributions to the county have been very significant.

I am happy he has chosen Hancock County as his place of residence.

I received a brief letter from a reader a few days ago questioning whether the sandbeach replenishment will create 'another hole' as a previous pumping had caused.

Bill Mitchell, president of Brown & Mitchell Engineering, engineers for the project, told Sandbeach Advisory members recently the dredging was going to be done on a gradual basis, as the 'hole' was something the U.S. Corps of Engineers were concerned about in reviewing the plans before permits were issued.

There are also to be some types of signs posted in the dredge areas.

Saturday is the big day for the Diamondhead Business and Professional Association's Merchants Fair set for Saturday at 9 a.m.

Merchants from the community will have special booths and prizes. In addition there will be prizes.

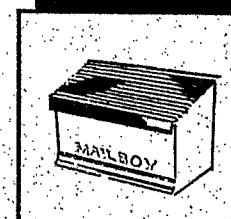

I hope to see you at the Merchants Fair.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Bay firefighters respond to criticism

Dear Editor,

In response to Mr. Aderer's letter of March 24 regarding the "unnecessary loss" of a beautiful beachfront home, we must reply: Mr. Aderer based his opinions on "what apparently happened" and "what I heard."

He states: "It is my opinion that the chief or one of the more experienced and formally trained firefighters should respond to scenes involving smoke or fire."

If Mr. Aderer would be as quick to check facts as he was to criticize, he would know that each Bay St. Louis firefighter who responded to that call is indeed "formally trained" and certified at or above National Fire Protection Association standards, and the firefighters who initially responded to the call have no less than a combined total of 50 years firefighting experience between them.

Mr. Aderer is welcome to check this information, as it is a matter of record, not hearsay.

He also criticizes fire department policy and procedure, not to mention the city administration — perhaps Mr. Aderer has many years of firefighting experience, or has himself been a "competent leader" of firefighters.

Somehow, I would find this hard to believe, as if this were so, he would not be so quick to criticize the training, competency and experience of the firefighters responding to that call.

Mr. Aderer's letter is an insult not only to all Bay St. Louis firefighters, but to every firefighter who worked tirelessly in an attempt to save this beachfront home.

Citizen offers suggestions to officials on sand beach

To the Editor:

The beaches presently being installed in the Bay-Waveland areas are not an unmixed blessing.

They will create problems that the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and Hancock County should be prepared to address:

1. Here, in Bay St. Louis and Waveland, only a two-lane road separates beach and homes. Blowing sand will erode the beaches and adversely affect Beach Boulevard property.

Planted dunes and drift fences should be installed to alleviate this problem.

2. Where will all these potential users of our beaches park their cars? Bays for parking used by joggers, walkers and bikers. In fact, the road is a designated bike trail. The increased traffic will put these people at risk. A trail for the exclusive use of joggers, walkers and bikers should be installed. This should be installed on the beach side of the road.

3. Beach Boulevard traffic has already increased with attendant speeding as a result of the Jubilee Casino. This problem will be worsened this summer with beach users, and if pedestrians have to cross Beach Boulevard to reach the beaches, they will be at risk. Increased police patrols are a must, and perhaps the consideration of speed bumps be installed in high-risk areas.

4. Since the users of our beaches will have trash, cleanup by city and/or county crews should be increased.

IRS law unfair to divorced women

To the Editor:

I am a tax preparer by profession and very concerned about a situation that has arisen this year concerning women who are no longer married, filing with their ex-husbands.

They want to file their returns electronically for refund anticipation loans or direct deposit.

They are being denied by the IRS on the basis of being first-time filers, even though they filed taxes with their husbands for years, and most of the time the women were the sole provider and only source of income for the family.

However, as always, the husband was listed first in the heading of the federal tax return, the wife listed second.

The IRS does not take notice of both Social Security numbers, only per se the primary taxpayer, which in most cases is the man, wherefore the wife is not acknowledged nor even considered as a taxpayer when they work and pay taxes.

This is not only unfair, but also discrimination, and it comes from the government. It's as if we were back in the days when a woman always followed her husband.

The man gets his return, but the woman does not. It is very wrong, and it's up to us as citizens and taxpayers to speak up. We can not let this happen.

IN CONGRESS

By Rep. Gene Taylor

Taylor supports "free lunch" and gift ban

When push comes to shove, the U.S. House of Representatives overwhelmingly approved a lobbying reform bill that will severely limit gifts, travel and entertainment that can be given to members and their staff.

The lobbying disclosure and gift ban, which marks the most sweeping overhaul in decades of how lobbyists deal with members, sailed to passage in the House on a 315-110 vote and now moves on to conference with the Senate.

The ban will virtually abolish such staples of Capitol Hill life as lobbyist-paid lunches and expensive gift giving. Congressman Taylor said he was extremely pleased with an amendment, added to the bill by the House Judiciary subcommittee, that was designed to enhance disclosure of lobbyists retained by foreign interests or governments.

The bill would also require broad disclosure by lobbyists of their contracts with members and staff and their expenses. Furthermore, the gift provisions of the bill would require disclosure by lobbyists of any gift worth more than $20 to a member.

"Basically, the bill allows only inexpensive gifts from anyone other than family or a close friend," Taylor said.

Critics argued that loopholes in the bill would still permit members and their staff to accept free travel for charity functions and meals from the clients that lobbyists represent.

Taylor, however, said he and his staff would not bypass the bill's intent. Even before the monumental House vote, Taylor's written office policy on gifts, meals and entertainment incorporated many of the reform bills' major initiatives.

"Under no circumstance can a member of my staff accept a meal or other entertainment from a lobbyist," said Taylor. "This is not to say a staffer can't go to lunch or a ball game with a lobbyist, but they must pay their own way."

Hailed by the Administration as a major "reform" bill, the President has said he would sign the legislation once it reached his desk.

ROAD REPAIRS

BY MARY G. SIEBER
Residents of White Cypress Subdivision kept the heat on county officials Monday to have roadway problems remedied in their area.

In the process, they clashed with Road Superintendent Sam Cuevas, who challenged their contention that virtually nothing has been done.

Cuevas gave the Board of Supervisors a list showing he's had crews at work in the area since January, installing culverts, opening ditches and patching potholes.

"I don't care what this paper says," responded resident Larry Carter, inviting the board to the subdivision to see the conditions first-hand.

Carter contended a well-organized crew with proper equipment could rectify the worst problems in a two-day working spree, giving relief to 27 permanent residents and some 200 weekend residents.

Board President Michael Ladner defended Cuevas' efforts, saying he has 300 miles of county roads to attend to. And, Ladner said crews have been hampered by a rainy season.

Board members said they would include White Harbor on their annual inspection of county roadways.

White Cypress residents complained about their road conditions at a previous meeting of the board.

THOUGHTS TO SHARE

There is overwhelming evidence that the higher the level of self-esteem, the more likely one will treat others with respect, kindness and generosity.

People who do not experience self-love have little or no capacity to love others.

Love thyself and one another, and have a wonderful week.

Diamondhead merchants host spring fair

Diamondhead merchants are hosting a spring fair at the shopping center Saturday, with over $1,200 in cash and prizes available.

The function features over 30 participating merchants, said Rick Fair of the Sports Locker.

Fair said 98-FM will broadcast live from the event between noon and 4 p.m., and will be operating the station's "cash grabber" machine.

The second annual event runs between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Jefferson Symphony chorus to perform at OLG

The Bay Area Chorale hosts the Jefferson Performing Arts Symphony Chorus in a performance of "A German Requiem" by Johannes Brahms Sunday, April 10 at 3 p.m. at Our Lady of the Gulf Church in Bay St. Louis.

The Jefferson Symphony Chorus debuted in Carnegie Hall May 10, 1993 under the direction of Dennis G. Assaf. This chorus was the first affiliate and the catalyst for the formation of the Jefferson Performing Arts Society which at present, consists of nine affiliate organizations.

The Bay Area Chorale was formed from a nucleus of individuals and choir members in the Bay St. Louis area. Under the guidance of Assaf and the Diamondhead Performing Arts Society, the community chorus has blossomed into a fine choral ensemble.

It is the desire of the Bay Area Chorale to provide choral opportunities for its members and the community and to present concerts of fine choral masterpieces.

Johannes Brahms' "German Requiem," Op. 45, is not only

Brahms' most ambitious choral effort, but probably his finest. Unlike the requiems of Verdi and Berlioz, Brahms' "Requiem" does not follow the format of the Catholic or Roman Mass for the Dead.

In the Catholic "Requiem," the foreground and middle are occupied by the "Dies Irae," the day of wrath, which threatens the departed with purgatory and the pains of hell.

The Protestant "Requiem" on the other hand, professes a gentler faith in a blissful resurrection and reunion through the atoning death of Jesus Christ. Brahms' "German Requiem" was probably inspired to some extent by the death of his mother in 1861.

The performance will be conducted by Dr. Louise LaBruere, director of the Jefferson Performing Arts Symphony Chorus, Carolyn Garteiser, accompanist.

Tickets may be purchased in advance or at the door for $6 adults, $3 students. For information call 466-2875.

Brother Lee named to New Orleans position

Brother Lee Barker, SC, has been appointed to serve as director of Residence of Brothers attached to Brother Martin High School effective Aug. 1.

Brother Lee entered the Brothers of the Sacred Heart in 1945 and first taught at St. Stanislaus in 1949. He was principal of St. Aloysius in New Orleans, the predecessor of Brother Martin High School, for three years before returning to St. Stanislaus as principal from 1966-76.

In 1976 Brother Lee served as provincial for the New Orleans Province for six years before serving as vocation director for the province from 1982-88.

A Gospel sing is scheduled for Saturday, April 9, 7:30 p.m. at the Morning Star Baptist Church, corner Sycamore and Watts streets in Bay St. Louis.

The special sing will include "The Smooth Family" of Slidell, La., and "Fire Sides" of Mandeville, La.

Something Old,

Something New.

1 601 352-9993

There's something new to remember. From now on, when you make long distance calls to telephone numbers within Mississippi's 601 area code, dial 0 or 1 + 601 and then the number you're calling.

The nation's continued telecommunications growth has created a shortage of telephone numbers. By dialing the appropriate area code on all long distance calls, numbers are freed up for new business and residential customers.

If you have long distance numbers within the 601 area code on any programmed services or equipment like Speed Calling, Call Forwarding, modems, or even a FAX machine, now's the time to reprogram them. Effective May 1, 1994, dialing the area code will be necessary to complete long distance calls to telephone numbers within the 601 area.

YOUTH INFORMATION

Bayou Caddy Hancock Insurance Agency

The Hancock County Retired Senior Volunteer Program will be participating in the Bayou Caddy. Hancock will be represented by various organizations within the community on a rotating basis.

Webster's Dictionary defines insurance as "protection against risk, loss or ruin; the guarantee an insurer guarantees to pay in the event of death, loss of medical bills; and safeguard against risk or harm." There are many types of insurance coverage available to the public, and I will discuss a few of the more well-known in the personal lines area.

Homeowners Policy

There is a choice of three progressively broader levels of coverage with respect to the perils insured against.

RSVP, UW participate in Gayfer benefit sale

Gayfers and the United Way of South Mississippi are working together to present the First Special Benefit Sale to aid the United Way and 19 other non-profit agencies.

The event will be Saturday, April 23 from 6:30 to 9:30 a.m. at the Gayfers Edgewater Mall and Gayfers Home Store, Edgewater Village.

Tickets are $5 and may be purchased from any of the participating agencies. Children 12 and under are free if accompanied by a parent. All of the ticket money goes to the non-profit organizations.

Extra special discounts will be available to ticket holders only during the sale hours. A continental breakfast will be served.

Special door prizes will be awarded, including a seven-day Caribbean cruise for two, compliments of Travel Affiliates and Commodore Cruise Line.

Hancock County Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) is participating, and tickets may be purchased from members. For further information on tickets, call 467-9204.

Those attending can earn additional discounts by bringing in reusable jeans, dress shirts and blouses for Goodwill Industries of South Mississippi.

"The United Way of South Mississippi is happy to co-sponsor an event in which participating agencies can cooperate and benefit," said Aletha Burge, executive director of United personal property values, which have dollar limitations built into the basic HO3 form.

There is also a Tenant Homeowner and a Condominium Homeowner Form available to the consumer as well as a Farm and Mobilehome Owner.

Personal Umbrella

The protection provided by most all personal umbrella policies is excess coverage over underlying automobile liability, comprehensive personal liability (sometimes in the form of homeowners liability) and watercraft liability. When the coverage provided is broader than the underlying insurance it is sometimes referred to as "drop down" coverage.

The name derives from the fact that the policy "drops down" to cover the entire loss minus the retention or deductible, instead of merely paying on top of the limits of the underlying insurance.

In other words there are occurrences that may be covered under the Personal Umbrella which are not covered under your underlying policies making this a valuable policy to have in your insurance portfolio.

Umbrellas are normally written for $1 or $2 million limits but can be obtained for much higher limits depending on the company.

There are many other types of policies available to the public for both personal and commercial coverages. Your agent can guide in selecting those best suited to your needs.

COOKING UP A STORM

By: Katy McGuire
Caire

Saltimbocca delicious with chicken or veal

The story goes that Saltimbocca, that delightfully tangy veal-and-ham combination, reached its glory years ago in a restaurant near La Scala Opera House in Milan, Italy, where it was served in ever-so-dainty bit-sized roll form.

The elegantly turned out ladies, with their escorts could just pop the saltimbocca into their mouths while dining a bit hastily so that they wouldn't miss the curtain's rise.

In fact, that's the reason this is called "Saltimbocca," for that's what it means in Italian, I'm told—"jump in he mouth." Many cooks at home and in restaurants in America and elsewhere now make this dish with flat scallops or pieces of veal, topping with slices of ham.

But, I still prefer to make it in the original rolled form, in larger-sized portions for luncheon or dinner, in bite-sized for hors d'oeuvres.

And, in the interest of thrift, I often make this dish with breast of chicken pieces in place of the veal. And, at times, I have substituted thin pork cutlets or scallops.

At any rate, to serve six, dust a dozen thin, thin pieces of veal, each approximately 4 inches square, with a bit of ground sage (just a stingy bit to each square) along with freshly ground black pepper to your taste.

Next, with a mallet or broad side of a kitchen knife, pound the veal more thin to flatten. The rim of a soup bowl serves the purpose quite well also.

Some cooks like to pound the veal before seasoning, but I like to season first, pounding the sage and pepper more deeply into the meat. At any rate, top each flattened piece of veal with a piece of thinly sliced ham.

Brown the rolls in a large heavy skillet in three or four tablespoons of butter or margarine, until golden. Next, pour in a cup of dry white wine, cover and simmer for three-quarters of an hour until tender.

A more Americanized version dips the rolls in a batter then in bread crumbs before frying or baking. Another recipe calls for topping the veal with the ham, then with Swiss cheese, finishing with another square of veal and pressing the edges together.

This is then dipped first in flour, then in egg, next in bread crumbs, before browning in butter over medium heat until golden brown, five minutes or so.

Swish out the skillet with white wine and pour over the meat.
